Creating a Web Presence for Your Photographic Collections and Finding Aids, Leslie Siegel, Assistant University Archivist, Florida Atlantic University

Archivists and curators, in some cases, feel at a loss as to how to get their photographic collections including the finding aids on the web without using advanced hardware and software, and IT services. This presentation will show how an older scanner and PC along with Word and Excel can prepare your photographs and finding aids for the web. Uploading into a low cost web site will provide the web presence you have always wanted.

10:00 am – 11:15 am

Outreach Success in Corporate Archives, Michael Zaidman, Sr. Archival Administrator, The Jim Moran Foundation

This session will talk about various ways a private archive will prove its worth in a corporate setting. Various forms of outreach will be discussed.

Documenting History Through Teamwork: Student-Faculty Collaborative Research at Rollins College and Florida State University Special Collections and Archives, Wenxian Zhang, Professor and Head of Archives & Special Collections, Rollins College; Burt Altman, University Librarian/Archivist, Florida State University Libraries; Rollins Students Alia Alli and Jennifer Ritter

With unique historical resources, academic archives can and should play an active role in support of the teaching and research missions of the institution. Not only archival research and collaborative learning will educate students on the importance of primary resources and how to use them, but it also is a way for the archives to receive assistance in documenting its institutional holdings. In this session we will report the student-faculty collaborative research projects in the Department of Archives and Special Collections, Olin Library of Rollins College and in Special Collections, Florida State University Libraries, in recent years, which seeks to provide students with meaningful learning experiences, raise the awareness of the special collections, and promote the value of the archival services in the academic community.

10:45 am – 12:00 pm

Creating The Space and Staff For A Growing Archival Collection, Alyssa Folse, Reference Librarian, Stetson University College of Law and Kristen Fiato, Library Technical Assistant, Stetson University College of Law

The Stetson University College of Law archives have moved from a storage room to a working archives space, which has allowed librarians and staff to start digitizing the collection. This presentation will address the issues and obstacles in managing a developing collection and will showcase several pieces from the Stetson College of Law archives.
