The Florida Bandmasters Association has guided the musical development of Florida’s high school students for more than eighty years, and the staff at the Sarah D. and L. Kirk McKay, Jr. Archives Center at Florida Southern College is nearly finished arranging and describing more than 110 linear feet of their historical records, spanning from the 1930s to the early 2000s.

The content of this fascinating collection will appeal to a variety of users. Among the gems found within are band contest and festival programs and results going back to the 1940s, as well as the music lists from which band directors chose pieces to prepare and perform.

This is the first issue of the Society of Florida Archivists Journal is now available for viewing. It may be small, but there is no question, it packs a big punch. This inaugural issue was a long time in the making and that is has only been made possible through the combined efforts of a truly dedicated Editorial Board. Together, let’s recognize this hardworking group of archives professionals for their commitment to the scholarly conversation of our field. They devote themselves to establishing and enacting rigorous peer review criteria and procedures; they engage in many stages of painstaking editorial and formatting work; and they continuously lay the groundwork for a journal that will contribute to our professional practice. A huge and incredibly deserved thank you to Rachel Walton, Tomaro Taylor, Hannah Wiatt Davis, Andrea Malanowski, Jinfang Niu, and Rachel Simmons.

What will you find in the inaugural issue? First you will find a Letter from the Editors, followed by a combination of articles and reviews. The current literature are categorized under a few key themes found throughout the very first issue of SFAJ: technological innovation, diversity and inclusion practices, and storytelling through the lens of archives.

Technological Innovation

Linked Data for Archivist: Graphs and Rhizmos / by Matthew Miguez (article)

Archivists have the responsibility, and a unique opportunity, to innovate their descriptive work in a linked data environment to ensure that archival collections are highly discoverable on the web, even if it means deviating from the traditional model of hierarchical description.

Diversity and Inclusion Practices

Challenges to Creating and Promoting a Diverse Record: Manuscripts and University Archives at Florida State Libraries / by Robert Rubero, Sandra Varry, Rory Grennan, and Krystal Thomas (article)

This group of archivists at Florida State University explains how to be intentional about diversity and inclusion across an archival organization, all the way from digitization and description practices, to teaching and research support, and public exhibit designs. Even when faced with a lack of diverse voices in the record itself, these professionals took on major internal initiatives to raise the diversity and inclusion standards of their archive.

Storytelling through the Lens of Archives

Voices from Mariel: Oral Histories of the 1980 Cuban Boatlift by José Manuel García / reviewed by Elliot Williams (review)

Anna Madgigine Jai Kingsely: African Princess, Florida Slave, Plantation Slaveowner / reviewed by David Benjamin (review)

Both reviews use plantation records and oral history accounts, respectively, to tell the different but equally traumatic stories of immigration and assimilation to a new life in Florida. While these stories take place in very different contexts and eras, both come to life with the aid of a significant number of archival artifacts and sources.

Scholars researching John Philips Sousa, the legendary band director, will be interested to learn that Sousa band member John J. Heney was a charter and long-time member of the Association, the collection contains some of Heney’s personal records.

Business records, such as state and district minutes and bulletins, contain a treasure trove of organizational information. A large correspondence series created by 80 years of Association presidents and executive secretaries provides context and color to the collection. The membership directories, as well as early membership applications (1930s-1950s) that include a photograph and resume of the applicants, will also be of interest to music historians or genealogists.

Also included with the collection are records from the Florida Association of Band Directors. This organization formed in 1941 to ensure the development of music programs in Florida’s African American schools. It later merged with the FBA in 1966.

Mentored by College Archivist Gerrianne Schaad, intern Chuck McFarland developed and implemented the processing plan and, with the help of student worker Emma Edgar and Archives Technician Amy Skillen, carried out the refoldering and arrangement of over 3,700 folders. Fortunately, over the past nine years, a folder inventory had been created on an Excel spreadsheet, making the intellectual arrangement process much easier.

Also, about two thirds of the collection had metals removed and had been refoldered, saving considerable time in processing when they brought the series together and into subject or chronological order.

Not long ago, I made a call for hurricane relief volunteers. I want to thank those volunteers who reached out to me when one of our members asked the SFA Board for assistance. We are still in the process of coordinating site visits and I will keep our membership updated as we progress with this initiative.

The SFA Annual Meeting is a few short months away. The Annual Meeting Committee, head by Anni Gonzalez and Mary Rubin, are working tirelessly to make our next meeting a success. It will be held at the Hilton Garden Inn at Dolphin Mall from May 8-10 and the theme is “The Past is Present.” I look forward to seeing you all in May and encourage you to visit the SFA events page for updates on registration and scheduling:

Designed for beginning archivists, manuscript curators, and librarians or those whose positions have expanded to include the management and care of their organization’s archives or manuscript/history collection, the Georgia Archives Institute provides general instruction in core concepts and practices of archival administration and the management of traditional and modern documentary materials. Recipient of the 2016 Society of American Archivists’ Distinguished Service Award, the Institute is a two-week program held at the Georgia Archives in Morrow, Georgia, near metro Atlanta, which includes six days of classroom instruction and a three-day internship.

Instructional topics include appraisal, accessioning, arrangement and description, reference and outreach, security, copyright, born-digital records; as well as a whole day on the preservation and care of archival materials. To link archival theory with real-world application, students will also participate in individualized, three-day internships at local archival repositories. The internship provides an opportunity for students to observe the operations of an archival facility combined with hands-on experience processing archival collections.

Pam Hackbart-Dean, a graduate of the University of Connecticut, has been Director of the Special Collections Research Center at Southern Illinois University Carbondale since 2006. Prior to that appointment, she was head of Special Collections & Archives at Georgia State University and was Assistant Head/Processing Archivist for the Richard B. Russell Library for Political Research and Study at the University of Georgia. She has conducted a number of workshops on arrangement and description, as well as published articles and books on the subject. The Preservation of Archival Materials day-long session will be taught by Tina Seetoo, Preservation Manager at Delta Flight Museum. The Born-Digital session will be taught by Dorothy Waugh, Digital Archivist, at the Rose Library, Emory University.

Tuition is $500 and enrollment is limited to 20 students. Deadline is midnight on April 1, 2019 for receipt of application and $75 application fee (which is refunded if not admitted to the Institute). Tuition scholarships are available from the Society of Georgia Archivists (SGA) (http://www.soga.org/scholarships/hart) and the Friends of Georgia Archives and History (http://fogah.org/programs/dunaway-scholarship/). Successful applicants, who are not members of the Society of Georgia Archivists, will receive a free membership for one year.

Call for Proposals

2019 Annual Meeting of the Society of Florida Archivists
- The Past is Present -

The 2019 Society of Florida Archivists Annual Meeting Committee invites proposals for live sessions and poster presentations. Along with any aspect of archival practice, the Committee highly encourages session proposals addressing how the archives community is providing access to the past for a better understanding of the present, for example, recasting narratives, revisiting history, etc.

Presentation Format:
- Individual papers. 10-15 minutes in length and typically combined into a 45-minute session followed by a comment-and-discussion period.
- Papers in a complete panel session. Two or three papers with a common theme and a chair/moderator, comprising a 45-minute session followed by a comment-and-discussion period.
- Discussion-based panel sessions. Visual or media presentations (e.g., videos, films, physical items from collections) followed by group discussion. One to three presenters may comprise a single session.
- Lightning talks. Short individual talks given in rapid succession, followed by a comment-and-discussion period.
- Poster sessions. Visual displays of projects, activities, or applied or theoretical research, to be incorporated into a larger poster session.
- Other formats. Hands-on demonstrations or other formats that encourage engagement and conversation.

Proposal Criteria:
Submissions should be simple narratives of no more than 300 words that explain the purpose of the session, the intended audience, and how the session will proceed. You need not name specific presenters, but a designated chair or moderator must be identified. Please include that individual's contact information (institution, mailing address, email, and phone). Preference will be given to session proposals that demonstrate the following characteristics:

- A strong connection to the program’s theme
- Inclusion of geographically and demographically diverse perspectives and initiatives.
- Potential impact on archives and records management practice.
- Relevance of the topic for society members and other interested attendees.
- Interaction and engagement with session participants.

2018 Archives Day

Spotlight on South Florida Archival Collections
Annia Gonzalez, Katharine Labuda, Rhia Rae
Florida International University

In keeping with the tradition of celebrating the American Archives Month and Florida Archives Month, Special Collections and University Archives at Florida International University (FIU) Libraries hosted the 2nd Annual Archive Day. On October 16, 2018, sixteen South Florida institutions spanning a diverse group of archives, museums, universities, libraries and historical societies gathered to showcase their collections to the FIU community.

With the goal of introducing and encouraging participation in the archive profession, the event provided educational and networking opportunities. Each institution displayed materials from significant collections and highlighted their upcoming events. Faculty and students explored and questioned the experts to learn about primary resources available in the area and how they can utilize them to enrich their research and scholarly pursuits.

Another goal was to offer volunteer and internship opportunities to students hoping to provide needed support to under-staffed archives. We worked to provide smaller, less known institutions a platform to connect with new users and foster new connections.

We were also able to network with our professional colleagues and had a great time meeting new faces, learning about what they are working on and planning future collaborations. Through the connections made at this past year’s Archive Day an FIU student is interning this semester at the Miami Military Museum & Memorial; FIU is working toward a future collaboration with the South Florida Collections Management Center, Everglades National Park; and The Lynn and Louis Wolfson II Florida Moving Image Archives, Miami Dade College is participating in an event with FIU CasaCuba in April 2019. We hope to hear more success stories of collaborations born from this initiative.

Thank you to all of the institutions that participated. YOU made Archive Day a success. Can’t wait to see you next October. If you would like to be included in the 3rd Annual Archive Day 2019 at FIU, please contact Annia Gonzalez at aalfonso@fiu.edu.
